

The National Law Journal Again Names BLB&G Among the Nation's "Elite Trial Lawyers"

October 18, 2016

Recognizing the top plaintiff firms in the nation who have obtained high-dollar recoveries and “did some of the most creative and significant work” for their clients, The National Law Journal (“NLJ”) has once again selected BLB&G to its 2016 “Elite Trial Lawyers” feature for the third year in a row. Among the qualifications required for selection, firms must devote at least 50 percent of their litigation resources to plaintiffs work, have a “significant win” in a bench or jury trial or in a major settlement, and have “an impressive track record of wins within the past three to five years.”

In addition to this honor, NLJ has also chosen BLB&G as one of four finalists in both the Financial Institutions and Securities categories, in recognition for its excellence in those particular practice areas. Winners in each category will be announced at a dinner in New York City on December 6, 2016.
