

BLB&G Partner Hannah Ross Named One of “Elite Women of the Plaintiffs Bar” by The National Law Journal

November 19, 2019

BLB&G Partner Hannah Ross has been honored by The National Law Journal's (“NLJ”) as one of its “Elite Women of the Plaintiffs Bar” for her remarkable litigation work on behalf of the firm’s investor clients, as well as her advocacy on behalf of the institutional investor community more generally to protect the shareholder franchise.

This category “celebrates women lawyers who have consistently excelled in high-stakes matters on behalf of plaintiffs across their careers and within the last year.”

The winners will be honored at the “Elite Trial Lawyers” Awards dinner on January 20, 2020 at the Lowes Miami Beach hotel in Miami, Florida.

Hannah is involved in a variety of the firm’s litigation practice areas, focusing in particular on securities fraud and shareholder rights, and has been a senior member of trial teams that have recovered billions of dollars on behalf of defrauded investors. In addition to her direct litigation responsibilities, she is one of the senior partners at the firm responsible for client development and client relations.
