

BLB&G Profiled by the New York Law Journal as a Finalist for Litigation Department of the Year in the 2025 New York Legal Awards

September 4, 2025

BLB&G has been profiled by the New York Law Journal as a Finalist for “Litigation Department of the Year: Class Action” as part of the 2025 New York Legal Awards.

The profile features BLB&G Senior Partner and Executive Committee member Hannah Ross, who reflects on the securities litigation department's most significant achievements, including consecutive victories before the U.S. Supreme Court securing dismissals of appeals in high-profile class actions against NVIDIA and Facebook. Hannah also emphasizes the firm’s commitment to career development through its formal mentoring program and shares her perspective on the qualities she admires in opposing counsel:

I

We have the greatest respect for opposing counsel who combine zealous advocacy with integrity, honesty, and professionalism...Those traits not only elevate the profession, they also make the process work the way it's supposed to.
