December 1, 2021

BLB&G founding partner Max Berger and his wife, Dale Berger, have committed $3.3 million to Columbia Law School through the Dale and Max Berger Family Foundation to endow Columbia Law School's Public Interest/Public Service (PI/PS) Fellows Program. This gift brings the Berger's and BLB&G's contributions to over $6.6 million in support of public interest students, graduates, and related programming at the Law School. The couple has also endowed the Dale and Max Berger Public Interest Law Fellowship, and under Max's leadership, BLB&G created the Bernstein Litowitz Berger & Grossmann Public Interest Law Fellowship.

The PI/PS Fellows Program supports a community of students who are passionate about careers in the public interest, human rights, nonprofit, or government sectors. It will now be known as the Max Berger '71 Public Interest/Public Service Fellows Program. Max was drawn to the program's community-building approach, which was essential to his decision to endow the program.

There's a certain power that properly focused and collaborative groups have in that the whole becomes greater than the sum of its parts. A formal structure where students who are committed to careers in public interest and public service can come together on a regular basis will help fortify these students as they move forward in their careers. - Max Berger
