Amy Bitkower is BLB&G's Managing Director of Investigations. In this capacity, she manages a team of in-house investigators and fraud examiners who investigate the facts and merits of potential securities fraud cases by analyzing publicly available information, interviewing potential witnesses, and consulting with industry experts. A certified fraud examiner, Amy has been working in the securities class action field since 1998 and leading BLB&G's Investigations Team since 2006.

Amy began her career at the New York County District Attorney's office, where she was an investigative analyst working on investigations ranging from low-level criminal activities to highly complex economic crimes. Early in her career, she taught courses in Criminology and Crime and Juvenile Delinquency at both Queens College and John Jay College of Criminal Justice.

Amy received her M.A. in Criminal Justice with a specialization in Criminal Law and Procedure from John Jay College of Criminal Justice and her B.A. in English from Emory University.
