

Andrew Thompson

Securities Fraud Analyst, New York
212.554.1441
andrew.thompson@blbglaw.com

Andrew has assisted BLB&G's investigatory team since 2017, proactively monitoring the world's financial markets for potential fraud, investigating, analyzing, and evaluating potential matters for the firm's case development and client advisory group, and developing confidential witnesses from defendant organizations.

Prior to his time at BLB&G, Andrew worked as an Investigative Consultant and Security Director. He is also a Certified Fraud Examiner.

Andrew received his M.A. in Forensic Psychology from John Jay College of Criminal Justice, where he also worked as a researcher developing investigative techniques in collaboration with the FBI's Behavioral Analysis Unit and High-Value Detainee Interrogation Group. Andrew graduated from Simon Fraser University with a B.A. in Psychology.

Education

- John Jay College of Criminal Justice, 2015, M.A., Forensic Psychology
- Simon Fraser University, 2013, B.A., Psychology