Katherine "Kay" Burke, a longstanding member of BLB&G's New Orleans office, serves as the firm's Client Relations Specialist. With nearly two decades of experience at the firm, Kay is a key liaison for Louisiana-based clients, spearheading client outreach initiatives and facilitating communication among the firm's public pension fund and institutional investor clients. She also represents the firm at major industry conferences across the United States.

In addition to her responsibilities at the firm, Kay is actively involved in several distinguished pension fund conference organizations, contributing her expertise to the Georgia Association of Public Plan Trustees as a Marketing Committee member. She is also a regular participant of the Louisiana Trustee Education Council, and the National Conference on Public Employee Retirement Systems, the Florida Public Pension Trustees Association, the National Association for State Retirement Administrators, the Texas Association of Public Employees Retirement Systems, and the Louisiana Association of Public Employees' Retirement Systems.

Kay received her B.S. in Anthropology and Archaeology from Louisiana State University.
